

TRAINING:

DELIBERATIVE DEMOCRACY

| RENTON | BOLITHO | FOULKES |

Everyone is talking about deliberative democracy, deliberative forums, deliberative decision making. Before you press go on a deliberative process, equip yourself with more information.

▶ WHAT IS IT?

▶ IS IT THE RIGHT APPROACH FOR YOU AND YOUR ORGANISATION?

▶ IF SO, WHAT COULD IT MEAN?

▶ WHAT ARE OTHERS DOING: CITIZENS' JURIES, PARTICIPATORY BUDGETING PROCESSES?

THIS TRAINING WILL COVER:

- fundamentals of deliberative democracy
- 'must haves' to support a quality deliberative process
- resource requirements of a deliberative process
- ways of determining whether it is right for you and your organisation
- a deliberative democracy business case 'case study' including risk assessment.

THE TRAINERS

Dr Annie Bolitho, Chad Foulkes and Desley Renton have many years of combined consultant and public sector experience leading and implementing deliberative democratic processes. All three trainers have post graduate qualifications in deliberative democracy or community engagement, and a history of instigating and overseeing some of the country's largest deliberative events. Their wisdom and award winning experience will help you to make good quality decisions about the next steps in your deliberative democracy journey.

"The engagement sector has long benefited from Desley's leadership. From her time as President of IAP2 international to leading and delivering next level practice at the City of Melbourne. Desley is a mentor, visionary and doer who has conceived and delivered world class engagements over many years"

"Annie's knowledge of what jurors needed in our citizens' jury on acquired brain injury was essential. We were the experienced experts, but it was not about us! We needed to convey concepts that we as health professionals take for granted. We needed to know what would occur on the two days of the jury and how that would play out."

A/Prof Natasha Lannin, Latrobe University.

FOLLOW UP SUPPORT AND MENTORING

Should you decide that a deliberative process is for you, the trainers can offer follow up support/ mentoring to ensure you design and deliver a deliberative process that will demonstrate value for time, effort and money.

"Chad facilitated our six day citizens' jury to provide input into our community plan. When reflecting on how day one went, there was complete agreement from those at Council that there was nothing we would do differently. Jurors (who didn't know each other) had been impressively brought together into a single coherent team and were primed for their task. After six days they delivered to Council a coherent, reasoned, rational agreed set of priorities that were achievable within Council's means, this wouldn't have happened without Chad's professional facilitation."
